

AUDIT REPORT 23'012
SOCIAL CARE & CAREFIRST SYSTEM
INFORMATION GOVERNANCE REVIEW

Executive Summary

The annual internal audit plan for 2022/23 provides for a review of the CareFirst system and the various databases used for recording service user information. CareFirst is the primary database that records and manages social care cases for Adult, Children and Families Services. CareFirst is a long standing widely used application within the public sector for recording social care data. Most service user data is available on CareFirst, but some information is saved separately either on a council IT server or in paper files due to the lack of a facility within CareFirst to attach documents and the continued requirement to hold some information in hard copy for legal reasons.

The audit reviewed access controls around the management of case files. This included consideration of who can view, add, amend or delete information, recognising that restricted access has to be balanced with a need for prompt availability of information for those employees who require it to deliver services effectively. Controls in this area are particularly important due to the sensitive nature of much of the information. In addition, the Council has duties under data protection regulations, and breaches of these regulations can result in censure and substantial financial penalties being levied by the Information Commissioner's Office.

The audit also considered the findings from a review of the CareFirst System that was undertaken within the 2017/18 Audit Plan and a check undertaken to evidence the implementation of these recommendations.

The audit was carried out in accordance with Public Sector Internal Audit Standards (PSIAS).

It is appreciated that due to the pandemic, officers have been focused on supporting service users for the last few years to ensure that essential care continues to be delivered. The review has highlighted the following areas for consideration:-

- Information concerning a service user care package is recorded on multiple databases, i.e., CareFirst, shared drive and paper files. Evaluation should be undertaken with improving technology, if it is feasible to strengthen case recording procedures such that all data ultimately can be recorded in a single file for each service user.
- Case recording procedures have been developed, however it was noted they had not been reviewed for several years. In addition, with the imminent transfer of Children and Families Services to the Moray Integration Joint Board, there is an opportunity to review working practices and develop uniform procedures for recording information and reviewing case files.

- The audit reviewed who can view, add, amend or delete information from the various databases used for recording service user information. Different access controls were found between the CareFirst system, Council IT server and paper files. Consideration should be given to reviewing access controls for these various databases to ensure consistency in operating arrangements and that officers can only access information required to undertake duties of their post.
